Dear Harry

It was good having a telephone visit with you yesterday. Since you have not called back, we are hopeful that you have found the text of your splendid lecture, delivered November 17th in the Harry J. Seiver's Memorial Lecture Series. We shall appreciate receiving a copy of same after your appropriate review. As I advised, we desire to publish this in a volume in the Center's Proceedings series. Could you also give us a brief biographical sketch which might be included in the volume. Also please note the title which should appear with your name on the by-line of your essay. done

May I take this opportunity, belatedly but with most sincere appreciation, to say how grateful we were and are that you delivered this outstanding lecture and with, necessarily, such little time for preparation.

Warm regards.
